All Sorts.

How far may a widow go in providing for her children? If left to the widow, she would probably think it right to go one step further.

We received an invitation to an art gathering, the other day with the alarming warning, "No evening dress!" Is this a nude departure in modern art?

It's all right to begin an article with "John Doe was the founder of the bank," but let it end with the arrest of the man who stole the money.

Some Indians use scalping-knives of tortoise shell, probably on account of the old fable in which the tortoise was alleged to have got away with the hare.

A French paper says a woman committed suicide in a police cell by swallowing her rings. It is evidently a cell—this story of a woman swallowing herrings.

A cow was recently drowned on Long Island, by falling, head foremost, into a hoghead of water. This is a warning to those who try to mix milk and water the wrong way.

Greenland has no cats. "How full of wisdom," exclaims the Chicago Times, "are the ways of Providence! Imagine cats in a country where the nights are six months long!"

When gold was 1,400, eggs were thirty cents as usual. But perhaps the hens are too busy to read the quotations, and haven't heard the fall in gold.

"What," asked a youth, timidly, of an eminent philologist, "what, sir, is the meaning of this phrase: 'Modus operandi'?" and the great linguist, whose mind was saturated with the literature of ancient Greece and Rome, replied: "It is Latin for 'How the old thing works.'"

He is a railroad conductor, and he begged a pass from Jake Brabshaw, the colored bill-poster of Grand Rapids (Michigan) Theatre. The pass read "colored bill-poster and wife," and he didn't know what was on it till he got to the theatre. They wouldn't let him in on it, and he hadn't any money, and his engagement is off with the girl, and the bill-poster is to big too lick.

"Mother, mother, I saw the Prince of Wales outdriving, and he spoke to me." "What did he say, my darling?" "He said, 'get out of the way, you dirty little blackguard.'"

A Dutchman was about to make a journey to his fatherland, and wishing to say "good-by," to a friend, extended his hand and said: "Vell, off I don't go back hullo."

The Honored Dead.

Yesterday afternoon while Senate and House were in session, and the bustle of life and growth were at their height, Oliver P. Morton passed away from earth. While politicians were ranging for the position which death was to vacate, decent men turned with reverence to where the veteran Statesman lay, and each minute as it passed was recorded by patriotic mourners. There could be no acknowledgment so full of Mortons genius and statesmanship, as the indecent haste with which his defeated enemies rushed to fill his place. They remembered a ringing voice and master mind which had awarded them signal defeat in many an exciting contest. They recalled the eloquence which often overcame members. They reviewed the record of Indiana's war Governor, and thought of the quiet, clear headed man who had kept them in siege for years. They heard again his great speech of 1866, delivered when the tired frame could not support itself. They saw that speech delivered to every voter in the land, and, having learned to associate the name of Morton with those of Webster, Clay and Sumner, it was natural that undue haste should undertake to place a servant where the Democrats had always found a master. The servant will not wear, however, the great Senator's mantle—his spare form would not fill it—and, while Hendricks fills the seat where Morton worked, Morton's frame will fill the national heart and adorn many a bright page of history. Senator Morton entered public life 25 years ago and was 54 years of age when he ceased to work.

Oliver P. Morton, was born in Wayne County, Indiana, August 4th, 1823; was educated at the Miami University, and was admitted to the bar in 1847; elected Lieutenant-Governor of Indiana in 1852; elected Lieutenant-Governor of Indiana in 1860, and became Governor in 1861, when Governor Lane was elected to the Senate of the United States; elected Governor in 1864; elected to the United States Senate, to succeed Henry S. Lane, and took his seat March 4th, 1867; re-elected in 1872.

Our Wealth.

The Eureka Republican compares our condition as a people with the wealth of Oregon, and deduces a very good argument in favor of the improvement and development of our agricultural resources. While Nevada, no doubt, represents in quotations, more wealth than any State of the Union, very little profit ever reaches the people from a handling of these values. Oregon will during the present year, export 5,000,000 bushels of wheat, which will return directly $3,000,000. Besides the wheat crops there are, of course, various products which thrive upon the soil of Oregon, and which will increase the amount of return. These miscellaneous crops may at least be counted upon to pay the expenses of production and thus the farmers of Oregon are perhaps some $10,000,000 better off than last year. We have met several travelers from that region during the present year and they all give a glowing description of the outlook. To point this suggestion two thoughts are alone necessary—how much have we gained during the past year, and how much could we increase the annual gain by reclaiming the best alfalfa land in the world? That is the land upon which we live and which we ride over in prospecting for the mines which enrich manipulators.

The working men in San Francisco have resolved to have a procession on Thanksgiving Day. That is the unemployed workmen have so resolved, and the city press fears that unless great care is taken trouble will ensue. The high fence built by Charles Crocker around a neighbors property seems an especial eye sore to the unemployed, and assertions have been made that it will be torn down unless received by the builder. The laborer will not better his condition by any such movements and such disposition is to be deeply regretted.

The most shiftless thing in this world is a Yassar college student taking a bath.

Anti Chinese.

Two bills have been introduced in Congress looking to a correction of the Chinese evil. One proposes to restrict the number which shall be brought on each vessel. The other lately offered by Congressman Page, limits the emigration of Chinese to those who came to engage in mercantile pursuits. The question is very difficult of solution, and we do not believe that either of these measures will serve as a correction of the injuries which the Chinese have wrought. Page's bill can only prove effective through compelling the Chinaman to invest his earnings among us. And this is not practicable; and the probable result will be to enable Chinese capital to use Chinese labor, which will prove no more satisfactory than the present system. A solution has been promised and we incline to the belief that these are only provisional theories advanced to awaken thought and discussion upon the merits of the case.

From Nye county comes news of a rich strike of galena ore on the eighth level of the Tybo Consolidated; also that the Gila mine will now begin regular bullion shipments.

Dr. B. F. Hardy, of San Francisco, has organized a crusade against the feeding bottle for infants. Several of our best young men, now, when twitted of their frailties, say sadly: "I was brought up on a bottle." It may be so.

Hon. Eugene Fawcett, judge of the First District in California, holding court in Santa Barbara, has removed Sheriff Covarubius from office. His offense was in compelling one of his deputies to allow him a percentage of his salary.

Joseph, the fleet footed Nes Perceen, says that he has had an "elegant sufficiency" of war, and will now settle down and make himself comfortable—if the Government will furnish the blankets.

Returns of the San Francisco Custom House show that during the month of October 238 Chinese arrived at that port, and 882 departed. We can spare a few more.

BODIE ITEMS.—From the Bodie Standard we learn that Bodie will have a school district of her own next Monday, on the meeting of the Board of Supervisors; a petition with twenty heads of families and forty citizens of Bodie having been presented to Mrs. Hayes, County Superintendent of schools, at Bridgeport last week, and was cheerfully recommended by her.

Col. Rogers, of Sonora, thinks of locating in Bodie in the Spring. He is one of the ablest criminal lawyers in the State.

The mines are all keeping up their promise, and several prospects will soon become producers.

Trade and travel is lively in and about the camp.

The Standard is the official organ of Mono county.

J. L. Greeley has been appointed Deputy District Attorney.

New incorporations and locations are reported daily.

The Commercial Agencies throw us a crumb of comfort by showing the number of failures, and amount of liabilities during the past nine months are less than for the corresponding period of 1876. The total number of failures reported are 6565; this year against 7050 up to September of 1876; and the liabilities are $141,952,356 against $165,273,900 during the same periods.

A Oaky Hall has returned to New York, and says that if his brain holds out, he will prove that as Mayor of New York he did not countenance the ring steal. Oaky also acknowledges that he is shaky in the upper story, and regrets the invention of so much romance in regard to his sudden flight.

PUBLIC DEBT STATEMENT.—A dispatch from Washington, dated Nov. 1, says: The public debt statement for October shows a decrease of $4,236,554.30 and the following balance in the Treasury: Currency, $15,950,632; special fund for redemption of fractional currency, $9,444,560; special deposit of legal tenders for redemption of certificates of deposit, $37,620,000; coin, $31,022,843, including coin certificates, $33,543,200; outstanding legal tenders, $354,490,972.

A Terrible Death.

Glad Springs, in this county, was on Monday thronged from all parts of the surrounding country to witness the balloon ascension. According to announcement the travelling show of Prof. Hoffman made its appearance and prepared for exhibition. Their large iron furnace was put to work, and the balloon hoisted over it by means of two poles on either side, forty feet high. The balloon was inflated by means of wood and kerosene oil, with a small quantity of gasoline added. When it was filled as usual, Mr. Haig, the aeronaut, was informed, "Two pints more of oil were put in, and, when exhausted, the damper of the furnace was shut down. Then he jumped into his position, and like an arrow the great airship shot upward, carrying its human freight dangling at its end. It had ascended some three hundred feet, and while the actor was performing on a horizontal bar, hanging by his feet with his head down, waving a handkerchief to the nervous audience below, the patched and dilapidated canvas split from bottom to top with a report that was heard miles away. No sooner had the gas escaped than the balloon collapsed and came shooting down as fast as it had darted up. The aeronaut saw his situation, and quick as lightning turned himself up and regained his hand hold, and commenced a manoeuvre to dodge a telegraph wire and pole towards which he was falling. This he succeeded in doing, striking the ground with terrible force, which bounced him up, to be caught and pressed down by the balloon. All of this was the work of a moment. The crowd was literally paralyzed, women sickening and fainting, and men unable, in their horror, to move. The companions of the unfortunate man stood riveted to the ground, and not until some citizens undertook to move the canvas did they stir. The man was found to be alive and conscious, but dreadfully bruised and mangled. He was through it all calm and cool, and described his feelings as, descending, he saw and felt death staring him in the face. He was taken to the hotel, where both Mr. and Mrs. Thompson did all in their power to relieve his sufferings. With all the aid nothing could be accomplished, and at 11:30 o'clock P. M. he paid the penalty of death for his recklessness. His name is Frank Hainur, from Warren, Ohio.—Abingdon (Va.) Standard.

The buildings for the Paris exposition are well advanced towards completion. Congress should act speedily upon the matter of American representation. These annual expositions have become invaluable aids, both in the progress of states and nations.

THE CIGAR MAKERS' STRIKE.—New York, Oct. 30th.—The cigar makers of this city now on a strike held a large mass meeting at Cooper Institute to-night, at which it is estimated 10,000 to 12,000 workmen were present. The principal address was made by Mr. Pold, editor of the Arbeiter Zeitung of Cleveland. Other speakers addressed the meeting in German, French and English. The Cigar Packers' Union, numbering 500, were present. The speeches were mainly in favor of upholding the trades unions, and of appeals to workmen to assist those on a strike. The meeting was very orderly.

TERRIBLE FALL.—Tuesday forenoon at about 11:30 o'clock, says the Bodie Standard, a miner named Pat Gallagher, while being lowered in the Bulwer shaft, fell a distance of near two hundred feet, and received fatal injuries. The accident was caused by the brake of the whim giving way. On being brought to the surface it was found that both legs were broken in three different places, also the left hip, besides internal injuries, from which it seems impossible for him to recover. Dr. Goodson rendered surgical aid, but entertained no hopes for his patient. Gallagher was formerly a resident of San Andreas. It is pretty certain that no blame can be attached to the company, as workmen are supposed to descend by a ladder in the place of the bucket, but miners have frequently made the trip up and down on the bucket, it being much easier to do so.

TO THE RANCHER.—The Banner Mill Company, of Boca, Cal., have determined to make a specialty of fencing, and with that view offer to the ranchers of Washoe county a superior article of Red Fir, acknowledged to be the best lumber in any market for the purpose named. The price will be found another inducement in comparison with other varieties. Address, Banner Mill Co., or R. P. M. Greeley, Boca, Cal. No other mill company this side of the mountains has this variety of lumber for sale. 9-81f.

Gush.

The Old, Old Story—Palpitation of the Heart.

One of our leading citizens to-day picked up a tear-stained sheet of paper which was evidently fresh from the hand of some school girl, and as he read the old days came back to him. He remembered his first ambitious effort to spit through his teeth, how he used to pelt the small boy in front with carefully prepared spit balls, and the zest with which he wrote lovely notes to the dark-eyed maiden across the aisle. He recalled with emotion the tremendous whacking he received from the old pedagogue for kissing the same maiden at recess, and how many airs he gave himself for having been drubbed for such a manly offense. As the good man soliloquized his lips trembled and his throat became dry; he felt a yearning sympathy for the suffering hearts who had written upon the tear-stained sheet, and fortifying himself with a few grains of coffee, rushed for the Gazette office. As he entered his sobs were actually painful, and when, in a broken voice, he requested that the lines should be printed, and ordered fifty extra copies, we began to sigh and shed tears ourselves. Brookins has ordered a car load of scrap books at our advice. Look at these and weep:

To FANNIE—
When looking in this book,
And these few lines you see,
Remember that you have a friend
Who always thinks of thee.
—From your schoolmate.

To FANNIE—
Forget me not, I only ask
This single boon of thee,
And let it be an easy task
Sometimes to think of me.
—From your friend.

To FANNIE—
We have been friends together,
And together broken rules,
What else could be expected
Of girls going to public schools?

To FANNIE—
First learn to love,
Then learn to hate,
Is the sad, sad lot
Of a school girl's fate.
"Tears, idle tears"—two for a bit apiece.

RICHARD TO THE FRONT.—Tom Hymers having heard of the great dog show in San Francisco, and that Jim Orndorff of Virginia had won a medal, concluded to enter his famous bone retriever, "Yellow Dick," and accordingly induced us to build the following epistle for him:

W. A. ANDOE, Secretary.—Please enter my canine, "Yellow Dick Hymers," for some prizes. Put him in as a lap dog, flea retriever or coon dog. He's a good one. Send medals to me at Reno. Yours, HYMERS.

It transpired, however, that the entry was too late, and now Hymers wants to match Dick against the educated pig that plays seven up with Montgomery Queen's circus, pedro, single dash. Tom says he knows that "Dick" is not in condition, but he's betting that he can get away with more pedros than any drove of hogs in the country. Montgomery Queen has accepted the challenge, and Tom starts east on the 20th to make the match. He will exhibit "Dick" in all of the principal eastern cities, and wind up at the cat show in Boston. We hope that the enterprise of our townsman may be rewarded.

ARTISIAN WELLS.—The surface water in many places on the meadows is not good water to drink, because of the extensive irrigation and much of the water being impregnated with alkali. It was therefore desirable to get water at a depth of 25 to 100 feet and to so obtain it that the surface water would be almost if not entirely excluded. Mr. Orrin Ross has tried an experiment which has proved successful. He bored a well on the artisan plan, inserting sheet iron piping, the joints of which were soldered. He obtained excellent water at a depth of 30 feet. Since his success some 15 other farmers have ordered wells similar to that of Mr. Ross.

The case of the Highland Ditch Co. vs. L. W. Lee was decided yesterday in the District Court, in favor of the plaintiff. Judgment was rendered in the company's favor for $21.40.

Black Nell was fined in the Justice Court $15, alias 7 days in the jug. She ruminated for some time and then threw down the "mud."

Bulfinch has a $1.50 assessment, delinquent to-day. Hale & Norcross, $1.00, and Chollar $3.00. Thus passes nearly $500,000 as "nutriment."

The case of Mr. Wm. Jones, who left the county hospital early this morning, and came to the Granger hotel, delirious with fever, may show some little carelessness at the hospital.

If we could help ourselves we would not enjoy this dubious weather. It looks as though it might rain or snow or do neither one. It is decidedly unsatisfactory, but it is too, bad that we are not pleased with it.

The ticket and freight receipts for the past month, of the C. P. R. R., at this place, were large, better than for several months. Reno alone has furnished, probably, $40,000 of these receipts. We are a small town, but do a fair business, nevertheless.

COMING BACK.—The McGibeny family favor our citizens with one of their pleasing entertainments next Monday evening, at the Methodist Church. One enjoys the musicale not only on account of the music, but also from the pleasure it gives to see an entire family with so much unity and harmony each member of which has a soul full of music, while brother and sister vie with each other in pouring out their harmony in pleasing cadences to delight the public heart and ear.

The Kern county Grangers have in their official capacity denounced the Desert Land Act, and conclude by saying: "The Desert Land Act has enabled a few speculators to establish claims on all the public domain of any value in this part of the State, and has greatly aggravated the evil of land monopoly. It should be promptly repealed and the entries under it rescinded."

The Beauty of the Sierra Nevada.

There is no color on the globe comparable with that which robes a mountain at a sufficient distance, however rugged and desolate the near aspect may be. One of the most accurate realistic students of nature that has ever lived, Mr. Ruskin, tells us that one cannot know what tenderness of color is who has not seen the rose and purple hues of a great mountain twenty miles away. Mr. Emerson, in an exquisite passage of poetry, has expressed and adjoined the same fact thus:

A score of airy miles with smooth Rough Monoclock to a gem.
Move off to a distance of three score airy miles, when the atmosphere is favorable, and what glorious beauty will the line of the Sierra wear! I have seen the vast bulwark thus from the bank of the Sacramento in the Spring, and once from the summit of Diablo, when they seemed though on the earth not of it. All their rocks, their gorges, precipices, their streams, their desolate patches which the earth avalanches had torn, their cliffs, their forests, their nooks and dells, their tortuous roads, all their bulk and savageness reduced to smooth splendor of color! First, a purple bar of foot-hills just beyond the dim edge of the immense prairie; then a middle slope of vague and tender green; and then crowning, all the golden snow (gold at that distance) in an unceasing stretch of 200 miles! What a vision through the clear air, when we sweep thus the complete physiognomy of their summits—here a symmetrical peak, there a long ridge sawed into sharp spikes of creamy whiteness, and soon a huge climbing mound of brilliance, showing where the Carson turnpike leads the adventurers after silver, that cannot be polished or frosted to such beauty as sheathes its own tremendous dome! Next to the Himalaya, in Hindostan, that ridge "bears the most noble name of all the mountain chains on the globe—"Sierra Nevada." And when we see it 60 miles off, under clouds that mimic its pinnacles and swells, it shows like a vision from another world, like the streets and wall of the New Jerusalem. Only the colors are in reverse order, as befits the heavenly glory in an earthly medium. First comes the amethyst, midway the beryl, and on the heights, not at the base, the pure gold, as it were transparent glass.—Thomas Starr King.

It was a little hard on the boy, for he meant well and had a sincere admiration for the girl. They were sitting at the tea table with a company of others, and as he passed her the sugar he murmured in an undertone, "Here it is, sweet just like you." The compliment was a little awkward to be sure, but he meant it, and it seemed more than cruel when in a moment later she had occasion to pass the butter to him, she drawled, "Here it is, soft, just like you."

Since the introduction of "female postmasters" a girl goes up to the window and says: "Is there a letter for Miss Margaret Robinson?" "Yes," says the female postmaster, "here is one from John Jones."

Staring by my window thinking,
Musing on the days of yore,
I can almost scent the roses
Blossoming by the well known door.
Almost see the graceful willow
Wave its long arms to and fro;
Almost hear the pleasant voices
Of the loved of long ago.

Almost see the ships at anchor,
In the waters of the bay;
Almost see the starry gleams
Of the Lanes' silver day.
Ah! my eyes are filled with tears,
And I wonder as they fall,
Is it truth, or is it fancy,
Do I thus behold them all?

Many years have moonbeams and withered
Slaves, old home, I saw the last,
Time has brought me many changes,
Seldom is my sky serene.
Still to thee my thoughts are turning,
With affection's glow,
And for thee my heart is yearning,
Cherished home of long ago.

A grave magistrate was sitting at the table between two oxen, who took it into their heads to attempt making him the but of their ridicule.
"Gentlemen," said he, "I plainly perceive your design; but, to save unnecessary trouble, I must beg leave to give you a just idea of my character.
Be it known to you that I am not precisely a fool, nor altogether a knave, but (as you see) something between both."
